Asphalt Plant to be in Operation by May 15—Public Works Board and Electric Company Unable to Get Together on Price—New Hours for Street Employees—Other Matters.

Wall street, between Main and Henry street, is shortly to be improved and the board of public works at its regular monthly session Monday evening decided to notify property owners to see that all gas, sewer and water connections are in good condition before the work is started. This section of Wall street will be asphalted.

The city's asphalt plant is expected to be here and ready for operation by May 15 and Wall street will be the first street which will be laid with stone asphalt.

The street committee of the board will shortly make an inspection of the streets to see what work is to be done this season.

Figures Too High.

The Kingston Gas & Electric Company has filed its proposed street lighting figures with the board, but the proposition has not been accepted as the board considers the figures quoted too high.

Want Street Widened.

Edwin Shander, a retired member of the police department, appeared before the board in reference to the widening of Hewitt Place, off of Linderman avenue. He said that at the present time the street was 26 feet wide, and in order to make the street a full 50 feet wide he was willing to donate the necessary land. The matter was referred to the street committee and corporation counsel.

It was referred to the park committee and Superintendent Darrow with power.

Goldfarb Complains.

M. O. Auchmoody, attorney for Abe Goldfarb of 348 Washington avenue, wrote that his client objected to the city dumping refuse on property adjoining his home on Washington avenue, and if the practice was not stopped would take the matter up in the courts.

Superintendent Darrow reported that he had had Dr. Clarke of the board of health examine the dump, and he had failed to find any "ill smelling refuse" complained of by Mr. Goldfarb. Superintendent Darrow said he had also taken the matter up with Mrs. Cummings, owner of the property.

Up To Building Committee.

Superintendent M. J. Michael of the education board wrote that the request of the board of public works asking the use of the grounds of School No. 6 for playground purposes had been referred to the building committee. The communication was filed.

Wants Pavement Relaid.

W. A. Goodrich of 112 Hone street wrote calling attention to the pavement on the east side of Broadway between McEntee street and East Chester street, which he said was in bad condition. The other side of the street had been relaid and was in excellent shape, he wrote. The communication was referred to the street committee and superintendent.

Wants To Sell Tanks.

The Hauck Food Products Company wrote that it was not interested in leasing either one or both of the oil tanks in the Palen yard, but would sell one to the city for $750, or both for $1,250. The matter was referred to the street committee, corporation counsel and street superintendent.

A Bearsville Bus Line.

Attorney F. C. Merritt wrote enclosing a duplicate petition of Earl F. Schoonmaker of No. 74 Brewster street, asking permission to operate a bus line over certain of the city's streets. The proposed bus line would operate between this city and Bearsville. The board granted its permission to use the streets subject to the approval of the common council to the petition.

Working Hours Changed.

The street force employees sent in a petition asking that during the summer the working hours be changed to 7 o'clock in the morning until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, instead of from 8 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The petition was granted.

SIX DEMON DANCERS GOING SINCE SATURDAY

By Telegraph to The Freeman. New York, April 17.—Ordered out of two states, New York and New Jersey three young couples today were waiting, two stepping, fox trotting and at times wearily "walking" through a third state, Connecticut. There are 45 states left in the union.

The six dancing demons are out to establish a new world's Marathon dancing record.

"I'll dance until I drop," was the word sent out to the breathlessly waiting world by Thomas Mulligan Gill who was stepping rather energetically, everything considered, with Miss Vera Sheppard.

The six dancers started Saturday night. Because of police interference, they were forced to dance aboard a major truck over the ferry into New Jersey to the Pekin ballroom, from where they were finally ejected.

They danced to another truck and into Connecticut. They are now weaving about in a private home.

MARATHON DANCERS MAY INJURE SELVES FOR LIFE

By Dr. R. S. Copeland, former Health Commissioner for New York city.

By Telegraph to The Freeman. New York, April 17.—Long distance, non-stop dancers may emerge from their tests with records of doubtful value, but they are running the risk of permanently impairing their health.

It is deadly stuff—this strain of 30 and even 65 hours on the heart, a delicate and most vital organ. The energy is exhausted and not renewed by rest, sleep or proper nourishment. The effects could not be other than disastrous.

It is a cruel and outrageous thing, that the young people are permitted to hold such contests.

FORD COLLIDES WITH CHEVROLET

A Ford sedan owned and driven by A. R. Atkins of this city and a Chevrolet coupe came together at the corner of John and Fair streets at noon today. Each suffered a bent fender. No one was injured. The Chevrolet was coming down Fair street toward John and the Ford was proceeding along John street toward Wall street. Atkins claimed that his car was standing still at the time of the collision but that the driver of the Chevrolet was looking in another direction at a car which had just passed, and did not see the Atkins car in time to turn and avoid a collision. The driver of the Chevrolet admitted that he had not seen Atkins in time to stop but claimed the right of way. The usual argument followed as to who was in the right.

HERBERT'S CLAIM GOES TO JURY

Both He and F. A. Waters, Jr., Seek to Recover Money Put Into Company Bearing Waters' Name.

Financial difficulties between the F. A. Waters, Jr., Company, Inc., and F. A. Waters, Jr., in which the company, represented by Leo F. Herbert as holder of all outstanding stock, seeks to recover on a $500 note given by Mr. Waters to the corporation, and in which Mr. Waters seeks to recover on two notes for $540 given by the corporation to him, resulted in the trial of the action brought by the corporation against Waters before Judge Fowler and a jury in Ulster county court this morning. Newton J. Pessenden appeared for Mr. Herbert and the Waters Company, with Frank W. Brooks of counsel; William D. Brinlier, Jr., appeared for Mr. Waters.

The corporation was organized to conduct the ice, lumber and contracting business, with Frank A. Waters, Jr., as president; George H. O'Neil as secretary and Leo F. Herbert as treasurer. Mr. Waters put in his ice house property and equipment, teams, wagons, etc., at a valuation of $7,500. Mr. Herbert contributed $5,000 in cash at one time and the balance represented cash previously advanced by Mr. Waters. The active manager of the corporation but both parties agreed that the company was not a financial success.

The lack of treasury funds was apparent during the first year of the corporation's existence, 1921, when the note for $90, which is one of the two notes held by Mr. Waters, was given him one Saturday when he managed to raise the money to meet the pay roll. Mr. Herbert said it was the same kind of note which was often given to him when he supplied money for the pay roll.

In March, 1921, and possibly as early as January of that year, Mr. Herbert and Mr. Waters had talks about which should be the interest of the other Mr. Waters had admitted that he had not made financial success of the company, and Mr. Herbert wishing to be relieved of his interest or to relieve Mr. Waters and thus control the entire stock. Mr. Herbert asked $5,000 for his stock and Mr. Waters said he would try to raise the money. Later he said he could not do so. He asked Mr. Herbert what he would pay for his interest and Mr. Herbert offered him $2,000.

Negotiations resulted in an agreement which was signed in August, 1921, by which Mr. Herbert agreed to buy the Waters stock for $2,000. The sale was not consummated until October. In November, 1921, there were further negotiations by which Mr. Waters agreed to buy the ice house property and equipment from the corporation for $4,000, paying $200 at the time, $1,300 cash at a later date, giving a note for $500 and assuming a mortgage given by the corporation. The agreement was signed December 5, 1921, and the time was extended until January 5, 1922, which is the date of the note for $500 on which Mr. Herbert sued Mr. Waters.

Besides the $90 note held by Mr. Waters, he also holds a note for $450 which Mr. Herbert said was given by the corporation in exactly the same manner as notes given to him, for back salary. There was no cash in the treasury to pay salaries and Mr. Herbert, and notes were given instead because matters were going from bad to worse. The $450 note was given in April, 1921.

The agreement of August, 1921, contained a provision releasing individual endorsements of Mr. Herbert and Mr. Waters on notes given by the corporation and signed by them as its officers. Mr. Herbert said he knew of the existence of the notes for $90 and for $450 and they were to have been turned in the day the money was paid to Mr. Waters for his stock. Mr. Waters denied that statement, and claimed both notes represented money due him. His explanation of the $500 note given by him to the corporation was that Mr. Herbert told him he had borrowed $2,000 which was paid to him for his stock, and finding that the other notes, which were payable on demand, could not be negotiated at the bank, therefore had requested a time note for $500, which he had given as an accommodation instead of the two notes aggregating $540 which he had intended to turn over to Mr. Herbert.

The amount claimed by Mr. Herbert to be due to the Waters Company was $534.81; the amount of the counterclaim of Mr. Waters was $817.81. Mr. Waters therefore asked judgment for the difference of $282.90. The case was summed up by Mr. Brooks for the Waters Company and by Mr. Brinlier for Mr. Waters, and after the jury had been charged by Judge Fowler they retired at 12:30 o'clock to deliberate.

ASSEMBLY BILLS IN RULES COMMITTEE

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Albany, N. Y., April 17.—The powerful rules committee, of which Speaker Machold is chairman, took over all legislation in the assembly today.

At a meeting of the assembly cities committee, early today, a total of 170 measures were "thrown" into the rules committee. About 30 strictly local bills were favorably reported.

The Byrne-Boyle bill, which would extend the New York city emergency rent laws to several upstate cities, failed to receive favorable action at the hands of the members of the cities committee, and was referred to the Rules committee. Assemblyman Jeffery of Niagara, Chamberlain of Syracuse, Whitcomb of Broome, and Murphy of Monroe, prevented a favorable report by cities committee on the measure.

With the rules committee in complete control of all measures, the assembly calendar, from now until the session ends, will be a heavy one.

THE PIG PEN

"Grunt, grunt," said Porky Pig. "How nice it does seem to have a friendly gathering in a pig pen. There is really no place like home after all."

"Well," said Miss Ham, "you speak as though a gathering in the pig pen were very unusual."

"We are here all of the time except during the winter when we are indoors and in the barn."

"What do you mean by speaking as though it were so unusual to be together in the pig pen?"

"Well," said Grandfather Porky Pig, "it just came over me what a nice home pen we have."

"You know every one now and again suddenly appreciates their home."

"At least I think they each and all do. Perhaps they have lived in it for ages and ages, but all of a sudden they see what a nice home it is."

"And that is the way I have been feeling about my home. Ah yes, I have been feeling there really was nothing in this world like the nice pig pen."

"And I have been writing a lovely song about it."

"How do you know it is a lovely song?" asked Miss Ham. "Has anyone told you so?"

"No," said Porky, "but I think the subject is a lovely one. It is called 'The Home Pig Pen.'"

"Well," said Miss Ham, "it has a nice title. You'd better let me hear your song and then I will tell you what I think about it."

"My opinion, I am sure, will be of value to you."

"I don't know," said Porky, "for if you don't like it I cannot think it will make much difference to me. Of course your opinion may disappoint me, but I do not believe it will do much else to me."

"And I don't know whether it will be of value to me if you like it. I am not sure whether your opinion will really make so great a difference, but I may as well try it on you."

"Ah, Porky," said Miss Ham, "you do not realize what a good critic I am and that means that I am one who can help you and who can tell you what is good and what is not."

"Well, go on with your song anyway. I will listen to you and tell you what I think and it will help you whether you realize it or not."

"So you have said, so you have said," agreed Porky. "Well, grunt, grunt, I will sing my song. I am eager to sing it and hear how it sounds myself."

"Yes," said Miss Ham, "I notice you are. You are quite fond of your own pig ideas I've always noticed. But go on, go on, I will listen."

Porky Pig grunted to himself that he would be lucky if he could get through it all before Miss Ham spoke again. But at least all the other pigs were listening as though interested.

"It Has a Nice Title."

In his squealing voice, he sang this song:

We may wander, we may roam,
But there is no place like home.
Other poets have said the same,
And saying this have won much fame.

But I care not if I don't win glory,
And I care not if it's all an old story.
For the fact remains, I speak what's true,
And that is always right to do.

Oh, the home pig pen, the home pig pen,
I like to say it again and again,
It is my joy, the joy of my heart,
Its mud is the choicest in any part.

I like it here, oh, I like it here,
It's my home pig pen which is oh, so dear!
Let me grunt, let me grunt, let me grunt,
I'm a lucky pig, as some say, "Oh Boy!"

Yes, I'm lucky indeed, squeal, squeal,
My heart with happiness I can feel.
Thumping pleasure and pounding with delight,
Yes, in the pig pen I'm happy by day or by night.

Grunt, grunt, grunt, grunt, the home pig pen,
I love it, I love it, let me say it again.

"Well," said Miss Ham, as Porky finished, "you won't be known forever and a day as a great poet, nor will people say that you are a coming poet, but it's a poem with good ideas, Porky, good ideas, squeal, squeal."

And all the other pigs agreed with her.

Where?

"Mamma, what makes the street car go?" loudly piped small Joan, much to the amusement of the passengers on the street car. Her mother quietly replied that the electricity made the street car go. While Joan twisted about in her seat turning this unlightening answer over in her mind, the car came to a stop.

"But, mamma," she said, still puzzled, "where does the electricity go when the street car stops?"

WORK DONE BY THE LEGISLATURE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, April 17 (Special to The Freeman).—In spite of the impression which seems to be general, that the present legislative session has been one of inactivity, considerable work has been transacted by both the senate and assembly.

While it is true that there has been considerable adverse action on the part of the assembly, the lower house notwithstanding has passed numerous measures of general importance.

The following is the list of important measures already acted upon by the law-makers:

Constitutional amendment vesting in governor exclusive power to frame the appropriation bill and giving him veto power over subsequent legislative action, passed by senate. The assembly has passed a bill retaining in the hands of the legislature power to frame an appropriation bill, gives the governor veto power over items and allows him to introduce his own bill if he so desires.

Constitutional amendment extending term of governor for four years, passed by senate, killed in assembly on the ground that the term is too long and that an acceptable executive may be elected.

Constitutional amendment shortening the ballot to the governor, lieutenant-governor and comptroller and reducing the number of state departments to 12, passed by the senate. A similar bill, adding the attorney general to the elective officers and making the number of state departments twenty, has been passed by the assembly and is expected to be accepted by the senate.

The bill repealing the Mulligan-Gage law which gave state aid to the federal government in enforcing the Volstead act, has been passed in the senate. This measure is still in the assembly committee, an attempt to bring it out on the floor having failed. Another attempt is to be made.

The resolution memorializing congress to modify the Volstead act so as to make the objection to light wines and beers, adopted by both houses, the resolution having originated in the senate. Governor Smith wrote the members of congress and received letters criticizing the proposition from Senators Foss of Ohio and Capper of Kansas.

Resolution providing for a bonus for soldiers adopted by the senate, having originated in the assembly in the form of a referendum to be submitted to the people this fall, empowering the legislature to bond the state for not more than $45,000,000.

The measure establishing a state trade commission has been passed by the senate. In the assembly a substitute bill has been passed which empowers the attorney general to prosecute practitioners and which carries a sufficient appropriation for that purpose.

The measure to incorporate the New York Stock Exchange was passed by the senate but killed by the assembly as unnecessary interference with private business.

The bill licensing stock brokers was passed in the senate but killed in the assembly on the ground that the state should not attempt the dangerous experiment of placing its official approval on all securities offered for sale.

The measure restricting the investments of fire insurance companies passed the senate but died in the assembly, the lower house holding that it was an unnecessary restriction entailing loss from forced sale of securities.

The senate defeated the bill creating a state monopoly for the writing of workmen's compensation. No action was taken by the assembly upon this measure.

The senate also defeated the measure which would give to the proposed state trade commission regulatory power over labor unions and the bill increasing the penalties for violation of the anti-trust law and prohibiting suspended sentences. No action was taken by the assembly upon either of these measures.

The measure restricting the hours of labor of women and minors to 48 for a single week, not more of which to be for one day, was passed by the senate and amended in the assembly so as to permit ten hours work in a single day and making possible Saturday half holidays. In this form it is expected to pass this week.

The minimum wage board bill, which also permitted such board to fix the hours of women and minors in industry passed the senate and is being amended in the assembly, since a similar bill in the District of Columbia has been held unconstitutional by the United States Supreme Court. The amendment gives the commission power to make recommendations only.

The measure restoring state-wide direct primaries for state and judicial officers has passed the senate. A substitute bill has passed the assembly embracing the direct primary plan of Governor Charles E. Hughes as exemplified in the Hinnian-Green bill. The bill providing for personal registration in rural communities has been passed by the senate, but was killed in the assembly on the ground that it was an unnecessary hardship on voters in sparsely settled sections.

The bill requiring pre-election campaign statements has not yet been acted upon by the senate.

The constitutional amendment extending from two to four years the terms of senators and the terms of assemblymen from one to two years, has been passed by the senate but is still in committee on the assembly side and very likely will remain there.

The constitutional amendment giving home rule to cities has been passed by the senate and the assembly has acted upon a similar proposition. The assembly, however, in dealing with the subject, has provided that home rule desires must comply with the constitutional provisions. The senate has not yet adopted the amendment.

The bill extending the provisions of the rent laws to cities of the second and third class has been passed by the senate, but has been amended in the assembly so as to provide that it shall apply to only such cities as request its application. In this form it is expected to pass the senate and assembly this week and become law.

The motion picture censorship commission repeal bill has passed the senate, but is doomed to die in the assembly on the ground that censorship is necessary to protect the young and for the general well being.

The measure abolishing the state council of farms and markets which now selects the head of the farms and markets department and gives the appointing power of such official to the governor, has been passed by the senate. The assembly has refused to follow suit, holding that the agricultural department should not be made a football of politics.

Measures, known as the Lusk laws, which require school teachers to take loyalty tests and which prohibit the teaching of anarchy in the schools, have been passed by the senate. These measures the assembly has refused to favor in spite of the contention of those who would have the laws repealed that they were made necessary by the World War and that that necessity has now been removed.

The bill providing for bi-partisan election boards throughout the state has been passed by the senate, but has been killed by the assembly on the ground that unnecessary expense would be placed upon upstate counties.

The bill requiring that all drug store proprietors be licensed pharmacists who go into business after the act becomes a law, has been passed by both houses. This measure is aimed at bootlegging and the sale of liquor under the protection of a drug store license.

The measure which provided for federal aid under the Shepard-Townsend maternity aid act, has been defeated in the senate. The assembly favored the retention of the present system but did not deal with the measure.

A group of measures, dealing mainly with New York city, yet general in their scope, have been passed by the senate. These bills authorize municipalities to control public utilities through municipal public utility commissioners; empowering municipalities to own and operate all manner of public utilities; abolishing the Transit Commission in New York city and giving to Greater New York power to operate and own public utilities; abolishing the present public service commission and substituting a commission of three to be named by the executive. The assembly is expected to stand behind a recently introduced bill which retains the principle of state regulation of public utilities, but under which the present power of the public service commission in the matter of regulation of fares and other respects are restricted.

There has been other activity on the part of both branches of the legislature, but the subjects dealt with above form the really important ones which have already come up for consideration.

MASONIC GRAND MASTER COMING

The Hon. A. S. Tompkins to Address Masonic Mass Meeting on April 27.

The Hon. Arthur S. Tompkins, grand master of Masons in the state of New York, has announced a proposed visit to Kingston for the purpose of conferring with the Masons of Ulster and Greene counties and will address a mass meeting of the members of the fraternity on the evening of April 27th.

Judge Tompkins lives in Nyack and is the present justice of the supreme court for the Ninth Judicial District of New York. He is very well known throughout the state for his strong, fearless and unbiased opinions. For his red-blooded Americanism as well as his impatience with other isms all and sundry.

The Masonic fraternity numbers about 300,000 members in New York state and represents perhaps the strongest as well as most influential grand lodge jurisdiction in the world and by virtue of this fact the grand master of this state occupies a peculiar prominent position in Masonic world affairs.

Grand Master Tompkins has visited and acquired personal contact with Masons and Masonry in several European countries and is probably better qualified to discuss Masonic subjects from an international standpoint than any other living member of this world-wide fraternity.

Absolutely Nothing.

A modest man was unexpectedly called on to make a few appropriate remarks in this wise: "A farmer started to town with a load of apples. The wagon box gave away, unbeknown to him, and all the fruit spilled out. A short distance further, in an attempt to cross a boggy place, his wagon became mired. Turning in his seat and discovering the apples gone, he exclaimed: 'Stuck, by heck, and nothing to unload!'"

The KITCHEN CABINET

He came up smiling—use to say, He made his fortune that way. He had had luck a plenty, too, And settled down and fought her through. And every time he got a jolt He just took on a lighter belt. Slipped back some when he tried to climb. But came up smiling every time. —James W. Foley.

GOOD THINGS FOR EVERY DAY

This is the time of year when a "boiled dinner" is appreciated. Of course it is odorless, but it is worth it. A few minutes with open windows and doors will carry away all trace of the cooked vegetables. It is a good plan to keep the kitchen door closed and a window lowered from the top while the cooking is going on. Cabbage, rutabagas, carrots, potatoes are the vegetables usually cooked together. A nice, fat piece of corned beef with a piece of fat pork makes a good flavor. The meat is put into the vegetable kettle and cooked for an hour at simmering temperature before the vegetables are added. The cabbage is cut into quarters, and if small two will be needed for a family of five who are healthy and like boiled dinners. A good, big rutabaga, weighing three or four pounds, should be cut into wedge-shaped pieces; the carrots, if small, may be cooked whole; otherwise they are cut into halves and quarters. The potatoes are best left whole, and should be of uniform size. Cook slowly for an hour or more, then serve with vegetables arranged in alternating colors around the platter, with the meat in the center. The hash, which may be made from the left-overs, is often as much enjoyed as the original dinner. Chop the vegetables, add some of the broth and chopped meat, stirring until well-mixed and seasoned. Salt will need to be added unless the meat is very salt. The broth is very nice and tasty, and may be kept for a dinner soup later in the week.

Rice Salad.—Take one cupful of cooked rice, one cupful of diced cooked beets, and two cupfuls of minced celery. Season with one-quarter of a teaspoonful of mustard, one teaspoonful of powdered sugar, a dash of cayenne, and moisten with a good boiled dressing.

AUTOS COLLIDE AND TIP OVER

Charles H. Johnston's Cadillac and A. H. Gildersleeve's Franklin Daily Damaged in Collision—Occupants Escape Without Serious Injury.

Monday evening about 10:40 a Cadillac automobile driven and owned by Charles H. Johnston who conducts a taxi service and a Franklin car driven and owned by A. H. Gildersleeve came together at the junction of Fair and Franklin streets with such force that both cars were turned around in the street and then tipped over on their sides. The sound of the collision could be heard for a distance of a block.

In the Johnston cab at the time of the accident were a man and a woman passenger, both of whom said they were not injured although they later went to the office of Dr. W. J. O'Leary for examination. Mr. Johnston and Mr. Gildersleeve escaped without serious injury. Mr. Gildersleeve complained of pain in his back and Mr. Johnston is confined to his home with an injured leg and hand although his injuries are not serious.

Johnston was proceeding south on Fair street toward Franklin street Gildersleeve was coming east on Franklin street approaching from Johnston's right. The Johnston car was struck on the extreme rear right side by the front right hand side of the Gildersleeve car. Both cars swung around in the street and then tipped over on their sides. The Franklin was badly damaged at the point of contact and the right side was badly wrecked. The Cadillac suffered a damaged mud guard where they came together but was quite badly damaged when it toppled over.

THE CHARMING SPRING FROCK

Here is a chic spring frock made of moire taffeta with Venice lace yoke. It is trimmed with plaited ribbon and a colonial bouquet of pastel shades.

COLORS WOMEN MAY WEAR

Black Becoming to Those of Fair Complexion; Blue Flattering Shade; Pink, Youthful.

There is an idea very general among women that wearing black has an aging effect on the appearance, but this is far from the case. Naturally with black, as with every other shade, a great deal depends upon individual coloring, but a fair woman, provided her complexion is not sallow, often looks considerably younger in black than she would in some bright color. The material chosen should not, of course, be very thick and heavy, as heavy black materials are very somber-looking and therefore far from youthful in appearance.

With few exceptions, blue is the most flattering color any woman can wear, and unless she is unfortunate enough to have chosen the wrong shade a woman will always look younger in a blue gown than in any other color. Very fair women, with ash-blond hair, should choose the pale shades of blue, light tones of sage and gray-blues, while those with dark or golden-brown hair can adopt the deeper shades, royal and the lighter tones of navy-blues.

Green, especially in its brighter shades, is an aging color, and the only woman to whom it is really becoming is the auburn-haired.

Any shade of yellow is apt to add to one's appearance of years, especially the deeper tones of orange and flame, therefore they are only for the decidedly youthful wearer.

Pale tones of pink are not only becoming but very youthful in effect, especially under artificial light.

Brown, which is often considered dull, is, if the right tone be obtained, rather inclined to look youthful; but when deciding on the exact shade the light in the hair should be taken into consideration. A russet-brown gown worn by a woman with similar tones in her hair is wonderfully becoming.

Before deciding on a color it is a good plan to drape a piece of the material round the head and notice whether it makes the eyes look brighter and brings out their color. If it does, you may safely wear it, knowing that you will be looking younger and prettier than usual; but if it appears to rob the eyes of their brilliancy discard it, no matter how pretty it may be or how well it may look on some one else.

Color for evening wear should be chosen in artificial light, and those for day use in broad sunshine, for it is quite useless selecting a "perfectly lovely shade" under circumstances for which it is not intended.

Some materials alter considerably in artificial light—especially taffeta and charmeuse—which takes on quite a different tint and appearance when seen beneath electric light.

CAPES, VOGUE FOR CHILDREN

Garment in Fancy Knit Goods Comes in Solid Colors With Stripes That Contrast.

Wool capes for children in fancy knit goods are having a vogue at the present time. They are convenient for an extra wrap to slip on and off. They come in solid colors with stripes of a contrasting color and with a deep white brush wool collar. One pretty model with elegant holes in pink with white collar, cuffs and lapels, and a little simple embroidery on each of these.

New for spring for the little people is a three-piece knicker suit. It differs from the winter suit, which has the bifurcated lower garment, full length, fastened with straps under the feet. The newer suits have real knickers finished at the knee with a tiny cuff with buttons. There is a sweater and small cap. They are pretty things and come in the more solid and useful colors, among them the Harding blue.

KINGSTON, N. Y., APRIL 17, 1923.

The Anti-Saloon League seems to wish it to be understood that its unwillingness to open its books is a matter of religion, but this intimation has not displaced the widespread impression that prudence is very largely involved.

A British hotelman in this country to take note of "new hotel fads and fashions" feminine America will demand when it goes abroad this summer, "submit the interesting calculation that American women 'travel four times as much as the women of any other nationality' and add that they 'set the standards of luxury in hotel accommodations the world around.'"

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt tells an interesting and an amusing incident of how an audience was held spellbound by his father, the late President Roosevelt, who was making a campaign tour through the west. After the meeting the chairman told the president that he had never seen an audience so attentive and that not a soul left the hall. Then the chairman informed Mr. Roosevelt that orders had been issued to several states prior to the meeting to have their guns ready and to shoot a hole through any man who made a disturbance or attempted to leave the hall before the meeting had finished.

Labor leaders have organized a banking house in Washington, the purpose of which will be "to underwrite, after thorough investigation, only those enterprises which are sound from a banker's viewpoint and in which labor can buy control." There can be no objection to the objects of the concern, but they are certainly not novel. Every bank lends money only to sound enterprises, and there is no enterprise in which labor cannot buy control. Industrial stocks are for sale to whoever cares to buy them, and control of the industry is vested in the owners of a majority of the stock. Labor can buy that control whenever it pleases and has the money. In fact, many labor organizations have already taken that course, notably some of the rail brotherhoods. Many industries encourage the ownership of stock among their workers, and offer it to them at reduced prices. No labor bank can make the right of stock purchase any more accessible to wage earners than it has always been.

UNSPORIED RICHINGS.

In view of the too frequent accounts of the selfish joy-riding of the "idle rich," some of them distinctly scandalous, there is a pleasing novelty in the story from Chicago that "Miss Delora Angell, young and beautiful heiress of the Gates estate of $35,000,000, is to marry Lester Norris, the poor young man who was her childhood's playmate," and that "both insist that the money will make no difference whatever in their mode of living." In commending their attitude, however, it is well to recognize that after all much money does make a difference. Great wealth involves certain responsibilities that ought not to be ignored. Noblesse oblige is hardly a term to be flippantly employed in connection with new riches, yet it is obviously the duty of the man of great wealth to acknowledge his obligations, including substantial sympathy for wise philanthropy and all forward movements for the benefit of his fellow citizens.

TOO AMBITIOUS.

The National Association for the Advancement of Scientific Healing recently organized in New York, announced its intention to correlate all branches of healing, calling into cooperation "the training of the clergyman, the labor leader, the capitalist, the psychologist, the sociologist and the eugenist," although it was proposed that the patients always would be under the control of highly qualified physicians and neurologists. It planned to establish hospitals in all the populous centers where "the whole man will be treated—mind, body and soul," thus meeting from every angle the needs of a "half-dick world" suffering from "indigestion of the mind as well as of the body."

Among other announced objects were "the promotion of a more scientific treatment of nervous diseases" and "not only bring health to our people but bring them enlightenment, contentment and peace." That ambition so stupendous should meet tribulations was inevitable, and it was scarcely surprising to hear at a later date that the first meeting of the association to discuss ways and means developed sharp disagreements and broke up in a general wrangle.

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. What sort of bird was the dodo?

Believed to have been a sort of gigantic pigeon, found on the island of Mauritius and other islands of that vicinity, and discovered at the end of the 16th century when the Dutch claimed Mauritius. Body fat and awkward, weighing about 40 lbs.; grotesque huge beak, wings like flippers, little tufted tail. A ground dweller and flightless. Flesh edible though not palatable. Laid but one egg. Quickly exterminated in less than a century after their habitat was occupied by humans.

2. What can I feed a collared lizard?

It is cannibal and will eat small lizards, horned toads, and little snakes, also caterpillars, grasshoppers, etc. A little green food is taken and this lizard is said to relish blossoms of clover and dandelion. It is an interesting specimen to watch while feeding, as it uses its front paws to push the food into its mouth, which is elastic and holds more than seems normal.

3. Why do they call alligator pear by such a name?

More than we can answer. The word is also used of an apple growing in the West Indies, and of a Central American cactus whose prickly head is supposed to suggest the hide of an alligator. Alligator pear is better known as avocado, and even that is a corruption of a Mexican word for the fruit.

ANOTHER EXTRA PANEL DRAWN

For County Court—Mary Builey Fined $100—Cannon And Fawcett Get Suspended—Hennings—Two Fined Not Guilty to Adultery.

An adjourned session of the April term of county court convened at the court house Monday afternoon at which time several criminal matters were disposed of by Judge Fowler.

District Attorney Traver moved the indictment of the People vs. Mary Builey of Cold Brook. Mrs. Builey entered a plea of guilty to violating Subdivision 2. of Section 1212 of the penal law, a violation of the "dry" law. Mrs. Builey was fined $100 or 100 days in the county jail. She paid the fine.

Kenneth Cannon withdrew his former plea of not guilty and entered a plea of guilty to criminally receiving stolen goods. He was sentenced to the county jail for a period of three months and sentence was suspended. He will report to County Probation Officer Robert J. Service.

District Attorney Traver moved the dismissal of the indictment against Robert J. Smith, grand larceny, first degree. Restitution has been made and the complaining witness does not wish to press the charge. Motion to dismiss the indictment and cancel the bail bond was granted by the court.

The indictment against Peter Banowski, burglary third degree and criminally receiving stolen goods, first degree, was moved. Defendant entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned and John T. Cahill was assigned as attorney in the case. John Kelley and Beale Karas, indicted on a charge of adultery, entered pleas of not guilty when arraigned and Benjamin Rowe was assigned counsel for Mrs. Karas.

Frank Fazio, indicted for bigamy, withdrew his former plea of not guilty and entered a plea of guilty. Imposition of sentence was suspended and Fazio will report to County Probation Officer Robert J. Service.

An extra panel of 25 jurors was drawn to report at court Wednesday. Several criminal cases will be taken up for trial at this term of court. The first extra panel of 30 jurors drawn on the opening day of court reported Monday and were examined and a large number presented legal excuses and were excused. This made necessary the drawing of a second extra panel in order to have jurors to take up the criminal work.

ASTORS NOW A STRONG CLUB

Due to Acquisition of Schatz Players—Favorable Likelihood to Pitch for Colonials—Shamrock A. C. Hosts Sunday.

With the announcement Monday afternoon that Buckley and Schatz were going to combine their forces for the coming year interest in the game between the Colonials and this aggregation began to increase very noticeably.

The announcement carries with it the further important information that Tommy McCombs, the former Schatz manager; Grant Casserly, the former captain; Elmer Beecher, pitcher; Joe Start, infielder; and Joe Mullane, outfielder, all will be seen in the Astor line up. It is also expected that "Red" Causey, former Giant hurler, will be on the mound for the villagers.

Such an array of stars as this is bound to make the Colonials do their utmost if they expect to register another win this Saturday. If there is one thing that Jimmy Buckley, the mayor of Rhinebeck, would like to do it is to hand the Colonials a decisive trimming. The Poughkeepsie papers say that although the hustling manager admits that the Colonials have a fair team they, like all the other teams in the valley, will have to dip their colors to the Astors.

There does not seem to be any doubt but that Coach Schrick will start Rube Forsythe in the box for the locals. The former Rhinebeck player is determined to show his former manager that he has not lost any of that ability which enabled him to turn in wins for the Astors, even though he is with the Colonials. Dahm will also be in the local lineup on Saturday and the fans are expecting big things from him along the hitting line.

On Sunday the Shamrock A. C. of The Bronx, champions of the Metropolitan League last year, will appear in this city. This is the only Sunday that The Bronx Club have open as they are again entered in the Metropolitan League which starts its season a week from Sunday.

Manager Brown is in Poughkeepsie today endeavoring to come to an agreement with Manager Sheppard, of the Bridge City Red Sox, and induce him to bring his team to this city a week from this Saturday. If this deal cannot be closed either the D. & H. Generals or the American Locomotive Company of Saratoga Springs will be the attraction.

RECEPTION TO PASTOR MOSER

Monday evening the lecture room of the Trinity M. E. Church was the scene of a thoroughly enjoyable reception given to Mr. Moser and family who have been returned to this pastorate by the recent conference, given by the people of the church. A very pleasing program had been arranged for the occasion. H. H. Flemming acting as master of ceremonies. The first number on the program was a piano duet played by Miss Maisterstock and Miss Raichle, which called forth very cordial applause. This was followed by a group of songs sung by C. Baldwin Allen, baritone soloist, appearing in Scotch costume. Mr. Allen was accompanied by Mrs. Harry Smith and was accorded hearty applause.

The next number was a violin solo played by Kendall Zellig, accompanied by Mrs. Zellig. The youth played so admirably that he was obliged to play an encore number which he very graciously did to the delight of all. Miss Ethel Maisterstock then gave one of her humorous readings, greatly amusing her hearers. As an encore number she gave "Three Little Chestnuts" with piano accompaniment.

Mr. Allen sang next a group of songs including the appealing Irish song, "The Hills of Donegal;" the inspiring "Invictus;" and the always beautiful "Banks and Braes of Bonnie Doon."

The musical program closed with Miss Raichle's spirited performance of the Chopin Polonaise Militaire.

In a few well chosen words, Mr. Flemming extended the greetings and welcome of the congregation to the pastor and his family. While voicing the opinion of the congregation that last year had been one of progress and development in the work of the church, he prophesied that this coming year would be even more satisfying to all, since pastor and people were now better acquainted and could work together in closer cooperation and fellowship.

Mr. Moser, the pastor, was then called upon for an address, and expressed his pleasure at being returned to the pastorate of Trinity M. E. Church, Kingston. After telling how great he had enjoyed the musical program of such exceptional excellence, just listened to, Mr. Moser gave some interesting reminiscences of his first two changes and of the early days of Methodism, showing by the comparison with today, how much broader vision the church now has. In closing his cordially greeted remarks, Mr. Moser said that with the closer cooperation and continued loyalty of the people of Trinity Church he was sure that that church would march on toward a spreading of God's kingdom.

After the program, the ladies of the church served delicious sherbet and home made cake, and a social hour was enjoyed.

Y. M. C. A. PHYSICAL DIRECTORS MET

Curative Athletics And National Federation Among Projects For Which Strong Sentiment Exists.

N. J. Miller, physical director of the local Y. M. C. A., has just returned from Springfield, Mass., where he was attending a conference of the physical directors of all the Y. M. C. A.'s in the country. The conference lasted throughout the greater part of last week. Many important questions were brought up at the conference. The two main topics discussed were the formation of a national athletic federation, and the place that will be given to therapeutic gymnastics in the future. Both were discussed at length, but there was not sentiment enough on any side of the topics to have any definite decision. There has been a tendency toward the forming of an athletic federation for some time, but the actual formation is being held up to await the decision of the A. A. U. concerning the proposition of joining forces. Therapeutic gymnastics have also come into practice during the past few years. Many of the colleges, the larger high schools and "Y's" now have classes in this science. The growth of this branch of gym work hinges around the federation of which, so this too will have to lie over for a while. Both matters will be taken up in detail as soon as the federation will consent to give out information.

LEGION POST TO SEEK NEW MEMBERS

The executive committee of Kingston Post, No. 159, American Legion, held a meeting Monday evening at the armory at which time plans for a membership campaign drive were talked over. Since the organization of Kingston Post there has never been a thorough membership campaign and as a result only a small percentage of eligible men are members of the Post. The American Legion is a World War veterans' organization whose intention is to carry on through the years to come as the G. A. R. has been continued by the Civil War veterans. Every ex-service man is invited to associate himself with the Legion. It is decided at the meeting to get up lists of all of the ex-service men and make a personal solicitation during the last week of April which will be known as membership week. An effort will be made to reach every ex-service man who is eligible to become a member of Kingston Post.

AGGIE IS CHAMPION GRADE COW FOR YEAR

Dairy Animal Is Daughter of Purebred Holstein Bull.

Total Production for Five Years Was 16,012 Gallons of Milk and 4,002 Pounds of Butter, Netting $2,180.49.

Aggie is the world's champion grade cow for one year's production, according to the Wisconsin College of Agriculture. She is the daughter of a purebred Holstein bull whose ancestors for generations have been carefully selected for large and economical butterfat production. In twelve consecutive months following freshening she produced 1,022 pounds butter from 2,616 gallons of milk. Her total production for five years was 16,012 gallons milk and 4,002 pounds butter, for which was received $2,180.49. During these five years she has been a member of a cow testing association and according to cow testing association records she has returned an average yearly profit over feed cost of $245.85. The average production for all dairy cows in the United States, according to the last government census, is 500 gallons milk containing 200 pounds butter, or one-fifth of Aggie's production.

The owner of Aggie is D. W. Huebink of Cedar Grove, Wisconsin. He has grown into the dairy business by first using a purebred Holstein sire on grade cows, then on better grades and now he is breeding only purebreds. It has cost him little and made him much. He developed his herd and Aggie through cow testing association work.

There are at the present time 452 cow testing associations in the United States. Of this number 127 are found in Wisconsin. According to the records of 61,000 cows in Wisconsin cow testing associations, their average production is 867 gallons milk and 332 pounds butter in one year, while the average production for all the cows in that state is 925 gallons milk and 227 pounds butter.

BUILDING UP CHICKEN FLOCK

Special Matings Is Most Economical Way of Increasing Production and Good Quality.

The quickest and most economical way to build up a flock of chickens for higher production and standard qualities is by special matings. A large per cent of the record flock keepers of the state are said to be special mating this year and several have announced their intention of having from four to six such matings. Some of these already have been made, but for the benefit of those who still have the job of picking out their breeders, the following hints are given:

Select strong, healthy birds of high egg production. Pay attention to standard color and shape. Give hens which have gone through a season of heavy egg production the preference. The male should be superior to the female, if possible. A great many poultry breeders have an exaggerated idea of the necessity of new blood. It is a very poor and dangerous breeding practice to get in new blood just for the idea of getting in unrelated stock. New blood should be introduced if it has the ability to improve your flock, but not otherwise.—J. J. Warren, Iowa State College.

DIPPING FOLLOWS SHEARING

Ticks Are Common and Interfere With Thrift of Sheep—Treat Lambs Well as Ewes.

Ticks are still too common and are the cause of great loss by interfering with the thrift of the sheep. Most sheep growers follow the practice of dipping soon after shearing in order to get rid of the ticks. Prof. C. W. Hickman of the university's animal husbandry department says that it is necessary to dip the lambs as well as the ewes, because the ticks tend to leave the older sheep for the lambs. Any standard creosote dip will serve the purpose. It pays to do a good job and see that every part of the animal is thoroughly wet. The flock should be examined in two to three weeks and if ticks are found another dipping is in order.

PROPER MATINGS OF DUCKS

One Drake to Five or Six Females Is Considered Suitable—Reduce Males Later On.

It is customary to use one drake to five or six ducks in the early matings and one to eight or ten later in the season. It might be a good plan to use two of the best drakes, alternating them, using one one day and the other the next.

Furniture Style Originated 1550.

The story of modern furniture rightly begins with the crumbling of the Middle Ages. The baronial hall stage, with its religious formality, combined with its rugged simplicity, was being followed by a more withdrawn, domestic and luxurious life. As always, this was reflected in the furniture. The strong and simple high and narrow Gothic style, with its characteristic pointed arch, began to be displaced. France is said to be the first country to be influenced by the Italian Renaissance, but there the Gothic and the classic clashed. The process of grafting the Italian style on the Gothic hardly began in England until 1550, when it was nearly completed in France. By the end of Elizabeth's reign, 1603, there was a semblance of unity, and the Jacobean period created itself.

1 KILLED, 10 HURT, READ CUVILLIER PROBE BILL TODAY

Do Values Can Be Taken Any Time In Battle—No Hesitating In Repressive Policy, Says Congress.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Dublin, April 17.—One man was killed and ten others wounded in a clash between Free State troops and Republican irregulars at Castle Rosegreen today. A former Free State officer, named Sommers, was in command of the irregulars. They had taken shelter in the ancient castle, and when Free State forces tried to dislodge them a bomb was tossed from a casement. Seven Free State soldiers were wounded by the explosion.

The rebels made a dash for liberty, but were fired upon and one killed. Three Free State soldiers were wounded when the irregulars returned the fire.

Free State military headquarters issued a communication announcing the capture of three more Republican leaders—Frank Bassett, of the First Western Division, Sean Gannon of the Third Western Division and John Andrews.

No further word has been received as to the reported capture of Eamon De Valera and it is generally accepted now as premature. It is believed, however, that the Free State soldiers know where he is and can take him when they wish.

Monsignor Luzzio, who was sent to Ireland by Pope Pius XI to assist the Catholic hierarchy to work for peace, issued a statement saying he was anxious to help the Irish people back to tranquillity without further delay.

President William T. Cosgrave, of the Dail Eireann, said the policy of the Free State government had not changed and that he did not believe the time was opportune for mediation. He said that for the time being the military would be in charge of the situation.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, N. Y., April 17.—The bill under which Assemblyman Cuvillier, New York City Democrat, hopes to have Police Commissioner Enright and the New York police department investigated by a legislative committee, will be read in the assembly today.

It calls for the creation of a committee to investigate "peace officers, sheriffs, police commissioners and police department in all cities with respect to the enforcement of the prohibition law."

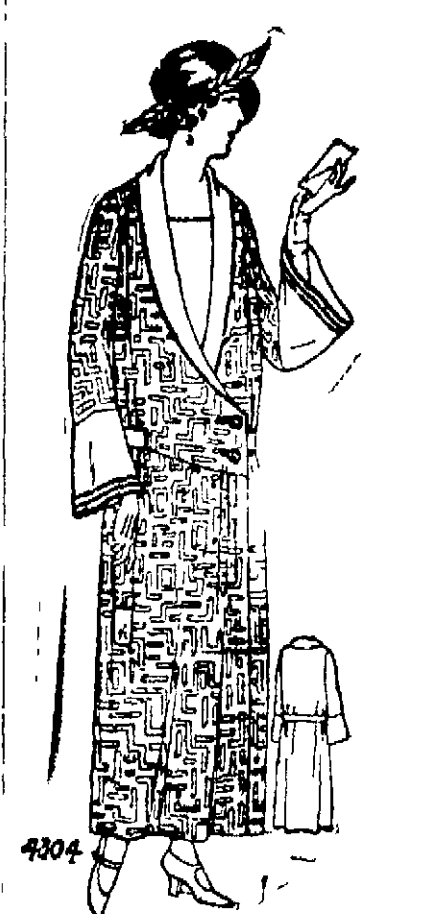

The measure was hastily drawn last night by Mr. Cuvillier when he found he could not introduce a bill today without unanimous consent because all legislation is taken over by the rules committee. The bill under which he had stated he hoped to have Mayor Hylan's administration investigated was not drafted in time for introduction last night.

The revised bill would appropriate $100,000 for the expense for the committee.

In attacking the Roca bills which provide for the retirement of Commissioner Enright and his deputies on a pension half that of their respective salaries, Cuvillier said:

"In the name of fairness I appeal to the house to defeat these bills and teach Enright, the big brute, a lesson. I stand for all that I have said about Enright."

Mr. Canfield was a former member of Company M and served with the 61st Pioneer in France. The left leg which was saved has caused him considerable trouble and it is hoped that an operation at this time will have a tendency to make it heal.

DEMS. TO VOTE WITH CUVILLIER

Mullan-Gage Law's Repeal Made More Probable at Party Conference—Three "Dry" Democrats Unpledged.

By Telegraph in The Pressman.
Albany, N. Y., April 17.—The Mullan-Gage state prohibition enforcement law may be repealed by the legislature today.

At a conference of the assembly Democrats early this morning following a long night session, it was agreed to stand with Assemblyman Cuvillier, New York Democrat, when he moves today to have the rules committee discharged from further consideration of the Dunnigan repeal bill.

Three "dry" Democrats, Kapler of Chemung, Cross of Sullivan, and Livingston of Columbia did not pledge themselves in the conference, however, to vote for the Cuvillier motion.

"I guess the three dry members of our party will vote right," said Cuvillier after the conference.

If the 63 Democrats support Cuvillier's motion he will need only seven Republican votes to get the necessary 76 majority.

"Repeal of the Mullan-Gage law was never brighter than it is now," declared Cuvillier early today.

Minority Leader Donohue urged every Democratic Assemblyman at the conference to vote for the repeal bill. The Dunnigan bill was passed in the senate two weeks ago.

Dry Republicans, however, predict defeat for Cuvillier's motion.

The repeal of the Lusk anti-education law also was discussed at the conference. Last week the Walker repeal bill was defeated after it had been practically certain they would pass. Another vote on the repealer would be taken today and this time they are expected to go through the lower house. Eight Republicans voted for the repeal bill when they came up last week but nine Democrats were not in their seats when their names were called.

The Reburn bill to extend the New York city emergency rent laws to 1926 also will be passed in the assembly today if the Democrats have their way.

The boys have been practicing for the past week for the opening games and all are determined to win the opener. Mayor Crane will toss over the first ball at Haskin's Park, and Selig Oppenheimer, chairman of the playground committee of the board of public works, will start the game at Forsyth Park. The games are scheduled to start at 4:15 o'clock.

Chairs Hold Close Relation to Life.
What piece of furniture is more closely associated with our lives than the chair? It antedates the ancient chest. Probably it had its beginning in the earliest aisles of time, so distant that the historian cannot trace it. In it kings have sat and ruled, popes and cardinals have used it, dynasties, monarchies, republics have risen and fallen but through them all has survived—the chair. And today, in the better furnished homes, the chair holds its place of honor as it has done throughout the world for centuries.

Brides Measured After Wedding.
"Measuring of the bride" is a ceremony that follows every wedding in the town of Royston, England. About 300 years ago the lord of the manor bequeathed $25,000, the interest from which was to be given to four brides of the place. Under the terms of the bequest the youngest, eldest, tallest, and shortest brides are to divide the money. The records determine who is the youngest and who is the oldest, but to decide the tallest and shortest, each bride must remove her shoes and let down her hair and be measured.

A Little Bird Told Me.
The common expression, "A little bird told me so," means that information respecting a matter has come to a person in some secret and perhaps mysterious manner. The saying is not a literal quotation, but is borrowed from the twelfth verse of the tenth chapter of Ecclesiastes. The verse opens with a warning not to curse those in power, and even in thought or "in thy bed chamber, for a bird of the air shall carry the voice, and that which hath wings shall tell the matter."

"Hall the Woman." Thomas H. Ince's greatest picture which is at Keeney's again tonight and Wednesday, is a plain story of plain American people, told in homely language that anyone can understand, and deals with incidents that could easily come into the lives of the ordinary family. Starting Thursday, George Behan in "The Sign of the Cross."

Charles Ray in "The Barnstorm-er" and Shirley Mason in "Pawn Ticket 210," are the features at the Opera House tonight, Wednesday and Thursday the new program offers John Gilbert in "The Love Gambler" together with William Russell in "The Crusader." Jules Verne's "The Isle of Zorba" is programmed at the Auditorium tonight, also William Desmond in "Around the World in 18 Days." Wednesday the lively comedy romance, "Watch Your Step." Cecil B. De Mille's new Paramount picture "Adam's Rib," was shown with marked success, at the Orpheum Theater last night. The picture, featuring Milton Sills, Elliott Dexter, Theodore Kosloff, Anna Q. Nilsson, Pauline Garon and Julia Faye is a story of the modern girl as an asset rather than a burden to her family. The direction by Cecil De Mille is faultless and the photography and scenic effects are nothing short of marvelous. The vision scene in the Museum of Natural History, which takes one back to the days of the cavemen is as powerful as it is novel. It stands alone as an exemplar of photoplay perfection. The support is excellent. Last showing tomorrow.

SMALL NATIONS WANT SUBMARINES

Their Representatives On Pan-American Commission Unwilling To Give Up "Principal Weapon."

By Telegram To The Freeman.
Santiago, Chile, April 17.—Opposition to Washington's anti-submarine treaty dropped out today in the meeting of the armaments commission of the Pan-American conference. Spokesmen for small nations said they were unwilling to sacrifice their principal weapon against larger powers with big navies.

Senor Valencia, of the Colombian delegation, opposed blanket endorsement of the treaties drawn up during the naval disarmament conference in Washington. Previously the Brazilian delegates had intimated that they were opposed to acceptance. Brazilian opposition is directed mainly against limitation of airplane carrying ships.

The Chilean proposals for separate disarmament treaties among the various American Republics, are still before the commission, but no action has been taken upon them. These proposals embrace some of the clauses called in the Washington conference agreements, notably opposition to the use of poison gas in warfare and the protection of non-fortified cities from airplane attacks.

Honduras has suggested that disarmament be taken up in a conference of the "A. B. C." powers, that is, Argentine, Brazil and Chile.

THE HOPE CHEST

By CLARISSA MACKIE

WHAT are you going to put in the chest?" demanded Aunt Martha, after Amy had asked for the old camphorwood chest in the attic. Amy flushed. "Oh—things," she answered vaguely.

Aunt Martha saw the blush. "Amy Leads! Are you starting one of those foolish hope chests?"

"Why not?" asked Amy defiantly. "I call it indelicate—I do indeed, for a girl to begin saving things—to be making things for a wedding set—when she hasn't even got a beau!"

"Aunt Martha! You do say such unkind things," protested Amy. "There is no harm in my preparing for a home that I may have some day."

"You certainly are valuer than I suspected you to be!" laughed Mrs. Smith.

"I suppose I may have the chest then?" asked Amy.

"Yes—it's out in the shed loft. Your Uncle Joe will have to get some one to help him carry it into the house. Do you want it in your room?"

"Please, Aunt Martha and thank you so much," Amy poised on one toe to kiss Aunt Martha's cold ear, and then dashed away to find Uncle Joe. Before she found him, Aunt Martha had met him and told him about the camphorwood chest. So he met Amy with a broad grin on his merry face.

"Hear you're starting a hopeless chest Amy," he chuckled.

"You are so funny, Uncle Joe," retorted Amy. "If you were a girl you would understand."

"Ha, ha!" laughed Uncle Joe. "I don't have to be a girl to understand, my dear. Why, when I made up my mind to marry your Aunt Martha, I started a chest right off."

"What did you put into it?" asked eager Amy. "Lovely neckties you picked up, and clothes and everything?"

"Not a thing went into my hope chest except money," declared Mr. Smith. "I knew that by the time we got married I'd need every cent I could rake and scrape—and I was right—but I've still kept my hope chest, girlie, and I am still raking and scraping to keep it full of money!"

Amy patted his brown arm affectionately. She dearly loved these two relatives who had adopted her in her orphaned childhood, and only she knew the sweetness in their hearts. She realized that they were disappointed because she had not married, and she was now twenty-four.

"And no hope in sight," sighed Uncle Joe, for Amy had never been attracted toward any young man in the village. "But I will get somebody to help me down with the camphorwood chest tomorrow, and you better work night and day to fill it because it's mighty big and time is passing."

Overjoyed at possessing the chest, which was larger than any of those owned by her friends Amy rearranged the furniture in her room to accommodate the chest. The next day Uncle Joe received a call from young Peter Hanbury, owner of a large dairy farm in the next county. He drove up in a large motor car, and Amy, sewing in the dormer window of her room, glimpsed his tall form as he passed through the gate. He was tall and fair, with a ruddy, sunburned skin, and a pleasant smile. Amy had heard about him and she guessed that he had come to buy some cows from her uncle.

"Imagine riding in a car like that," thought Amy as she gazed down at its shining splendor. She felt to daydreaming and she had quite forgotten about the owner of the car when she heard heavy footsteps on the back stairs and her Uncle Joe's hearty voice lifted.

"Yes—pant—pant—this chest is going—pant—into my niece's room—pant—pant. Amy's going—pant—steady there, Peter, I'm not as young as I was—puff—puff—Amy's going to start a hope chest—ha—ha. I call it a hopeless chest—ha, ha!"

With flaming cheeks Amy fled to hide behind the chintz curtain that concealed her wardrobe. She hid her face in the cool folds of a dainty gown as the men brought the chest inside and it thumped to the floor. They breathed heavily for a moment, and Amy peered curiously through the parted curtain.

They stood with their backs to her, and Uncle Joe was telling Peter about the camphorwood chest which his mother had brought from China. Amy's lovely face was framed in the folds of rose and blue chintz as she peeped. The men were standing facing the dressing table and Peter Hanbury's face was plainly visible. He was gazing intently at something pleasant—his eyes betrayed that. Amy wondered—then with a fascinated horror she realized that he was looking directly at her face plainly revealed in the mirror.

There was only one thing to do, and Amy came forth in radiant confusion. "Thank you so much," she said to them after Uncle Joe had introduced Peter Hanbury.

Uncle Joe beamed upon them as Peter made some remark about the history of the great chest, for all the time Peter's eyes were admiring Amy Leads. After Peter had gone, having begged for an invitation to come and make a real call, Uncle Joe said to his wife:

"That ain't a hopeless chest—not by a jugal!"

And Peter had decided that it couldn't possibly be anything except a hope chest for Amy—Mrs. Peter Hanbury.

Ford Weekly Purchase Plan

For many years it has been Henry Ford's personal ambition to make the Ford the universal family car—to put it within the reach of the millions of people who have never been privileged to enjoy the benefits of motor car ownership.

During the past fifteen years over 7,500,000 Ford Cars have been placed in the hands of retail customers—more than a million and a half of them within the past twelve months—and yet there are still millions of families who are hopefully looking forward to the day when they can own a Ford.

And now the way is open.

Under the terms of this plan you can select your Ford Car, set aside a small amount each week and you will be surprised how soon you will own it. In the meantime your money will be safely deposited to your credit in one of the local banks where it will draw interest.

Think it over. Five dollars will start an account. The whole family can participate in it—father, mother, brothers and sisters each doing a little.

Why not start today. Stop in and talk it over with your local Ford dealer. He will be glad to fully explain the details of the plan and help you get started toward the ownership of a Ford car.

PHONE RATES ARE NOT AFFECTED

Court Decision Which Allows Company to Keep Money & Collect Above Rates Established by P. S. C. March 2, 1922.

A statement from J. F. McCulloch, president of the New York Telephone Company, says:

The New York Telephone Co. has been informed that the United States supreme court today handed down a decision confirming the order of the court below which grants an injunction against the enforcement of the reduced telephone rates fixed by order of the public service commission made on March 2, 1922.

Although a copy of the opinion has not yet been received by this company, said Mr. McCulloch, "we understand that it was written by Justice Brandeis and that the decision of the court was unanimous. It would seem that this determination by the supreme court of the United States has entirely justified the action of the company in bringing suit in the federal courts to enforce the enforcement of these rates. We are, of course, pleased with the decision, but we cannot further comment upon it until we have had an opportunity to examine in detail the opinion of the court. It should be understood that the litigation in which this decision was made affects only the rates which were charged by the company from April 1, 1922, to March 1, 1923, upon which later the public service commission established the present rates which are in no way affected by this decision of the supreme court."

WE NOW HAVE VALVELESS TUBE

Automobile owners will be interested in knowing that Mr. Chas. H. Hughes of Chicago, the inventor of rear gas, has just completed a new invention that will do away with the necessity of valves in automobile tires and tubes. Mr. Hughes has arranged a mixture that will go inside the tube, and when a puncture occurs, the mixture will flow to the opening and immediately close it and prevent the escape of air. When the air in the inner tube does escape, with the filling needle, it is possible to refill it and upon the withdrawal of the needle the glue on the inner tube will immediately seal the hole.

AVOID SKIDDING BY TWO METHODS

Rough Tread Tires or Chains Will Prevent Trouble to Considerable Extent.

Why an automobile skids is of interest to a motorist, but what to do to prevent skidding and what to do when the car is skidding are equally important topics.

The main cause of skidding of rear wheels of motor cars is due to the action of the brakes operating through the rear wheels. Skidding, of course, normally occurs only when the roads are slippery.

An automobile wheel rotates and progresses over the highway in but one direction or plane. This direction for the rear wheels is determined by the front wheels under control of the driver. While the rear wheels grip the ground and rotate they control the direction of the car. However, as soon as the rear wheels are locked by the brakes they begin to slide and as they slide sideways practically as easily as forward, they lose the power to direct the car.

Little Friction Locks Wheels.

It takes comparatively little brake friction to lock and slide rear wheels on slippery roads because there is little friction between the tire and the road surface. When once the driving wheels begin to slip the car is kept in motion by the force of inertia acting at the car's center of gravity or mass. This forward motion is opposed by the resistance of all four wheels on the ground, a resistance that is greater in the rotating front wheels than in the sliding rear wheels. Unless the combined ground resistance of all wheels, tending to stop the car, acts on the same point as the force of inertia tending to carry the car forward, there results what is called "force couple," which causes the car to skid or spin around.

After the wheels once start to slip a very small "force couple" will produce skidding, and the skid distance is dependent upon the magnitude of the "force couple" which in turn depends on car speed and weight. Turning the front wheels in the direction of the rear wheel skid helps to reduce skidding because it reduces the magnitude of the "force couple." Also periodically releasing and re-applying the brake so the rear wheels can get a grip offsets forward slip and consequent side skid.

Ways to Prevent Skidding.

Two means are employed to prevent skidding in motor vehicles. The use of nonskid or rough tread tires and of anti-skid chains. Nonskid tires are designed to give forward traction and to prevent side slip. As long as there is traction the rear wheels will turn, and as long as the rear wheels turn there will be no serious side slip, unless the front wheels are blocked.

Nonskid chains accomplish the same purpose as the nonskid tire tread, that is, give additional traction and reduce side slip. Nonskid chains should supplement nonskid tires only when road conditions absolutely require them.

RIGHT FIRING OF CYLINDERS

If Not Working Properly Gasoline Is Being Wasted—Learn to Use Screwdriver.

Are all your cylinders firing properly? If not, you are wasting gasoline and filling the dead cylinder with oil, which will carbonize when you get it firing again. Give the engine a little more gas while idling and open the pet cocks to look for flame. If no flame spurts out the cylinder is dead. If you have no compression cocks learn how to use a screwdriver to short-circuit the spark plugs. If it does not affect the running of the engine it is a dead cylinder.

Use FREEMAN advertising regularly and conservatively and results will surely follow.

Avoid Soft Tires.

Don't drive your car with tires that are soft or not properly inflated or you will be well started on the road to tire trouble, with the following results to your tires and your pocket-book:

Tire heating, which destroys the valuable chemical elements necessary to both rubber and fabric.

Cracking of the side walls and rim cutting and in some cases pinching of the tube.

Sliding of the tire on the rim when the brakes are applied suddenly, causing the tube to tear around the valve stem.

Thread loosening from the fabric due to arc of bend in transverse direction to arc of circumference.

Tires puncture more easily when not properly inflated.

Creates a drag and the car is slow to pick up speed.

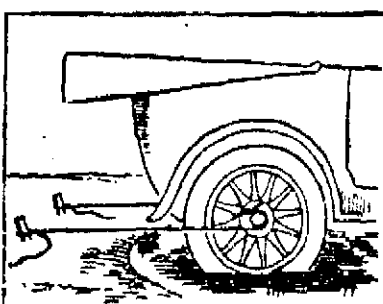

If on the front wheels steering is made harder.

Motor has to work much harder; gasoline consumption is greater and many other effects make themselves known.

SCHEME FOR PULLING MACHINE OUT OF MUD

Unique Plan Employed to Get Automobile Out of Hole.

While riding one day with a neighbor in his car we were unfortunate enough to run into a mud hole. The rear wheels, even with the chains on, absolutely refused to take hold, either going ahead or back. It seemed to me at first that we were in to stay; but I found that my friend was prepared for just such emergency. He produced from the tool box two pieces of rope about ten feet long, two wooden stakes about 18 inches long and a three-pound sledge. I wondered just what was "coming off," but I soon learned. He drove a stake behind each rear wheel where the ground was solid. A rope was then tied to each stake, close to the ground, run under the hub and tied to a spoke, as the cut shows. My friend started his engine, threw it into reverse, and the engine easily backed itself out of the mud hole.

It is worth any autoist's time, especially when traveling on country roads, to add these inexpensive articles to his equipment.—V. A. Gallier in the Michigan Farmer.

DON'T THROW AWAY USED OIL

By Adding 50 Per Cent of Kerosene to This Waste an Excellent Lubricant Is Obtained.

Most car owners drain the oil out of the crank case about three times a year, and as a general rule this used oil is simply thrown away. By adding 50 per cent of kerosene to this waste oil an excellent spring lubricant is obtained. The method of using the mixture is to spray it over the springs once a week. The oil furnishes the lubricating means, while the kerosene keeps the springs free from rust.

The trial of Wylie F. "Texas" Morgan for the murder of little six-year-old Lillian Gilmore has been begun in Philadelphia. So strong is the sentiment against the confessed murderer that great difficulty was encountered in selecting a jury. Little Lillian was playing in front of her home with her sister, Dorothy, when they were invited by Morgan to go for an automobile ride. Little Dorothy saw Morgan repeatedly attack and then kill her sister, whose body he threw under a tree-stump, 20 miles from Philadelphia. Then he took Dorothy to a spot near her home and left her. Morgan was arrested, when he confessed and led the police to the spot where the child's body was found. There were many threats of lynching. The slain girl was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gilmore.

Metal Paper.

It is reported that lithographers here and abroad have for some time been using plated paper instead of thin metal sheets, preferring the former as the paper body gives a soft cushioning effect which cannot be obtained with the solid metal. For this purpose the metal is electroplated on the surface of the paper, which has first been coated with a layer of graphite to give it a conducting surface. The principle thus employed is old, but the difficulty has always been that the liquid in the plating bath would soak into the paper and would loosen the metal film from it even while this was being deposited. Now the users have learned that by first coating the paper with a varnish or lacquer impervious to moisture, they can make it immune against the direct action of the liquid, so that the film of metal will cling firmly to it.

orthodox will be followed right at the outset in the scheduled of separate inaugurations, the National League's being booked for this afternoon and that of the American League tomorrow. Usually the two leagues contrive to get away running at one and the same time, but these are radical days in baseball.

For the National League opening today the world's champion Giants are in Boston, the Phillies in Brooklyn, Pittsburgh in Chicago and St. Louis in Cincinnati. Tomorrow the American League will come into its own and an epochal event in baseball history will follow with the official dedication of the new Yankee stadium here, the largest structure that ever housed a ball club.

It will accommodate some 65,000 souls, according to all available data, and granted the boon of favorable weather every seat will have an occupant when the Yankees and Boston Red Sox appear on the field for the first game within the great enclosure. Other opening day attractions include the White Sox and Indians in Cleveland, the Tigers and Browns in St. Louis, and the Senators and Athletics in Philadelphia.

All others, however, are utterly without consequence in comparison with the Yankee field ceremonies. They herald the coming of a new era in baseball finances, the day when a world's series at the two New York parks will be worth at least $10,000 to the individual players concerned. The sport known as baseball has become quite a business and no better proof of this fact is needed than the conserving estimate that a quarter of a million persons will sit at the opening day events at the various parks.

As matters stand at this writing it looks like a case of the two New York outfits versus the combined west in the scramble for the pennants. The Giants, a great ball club just coming to the pinnacle of its power, seem to have the National League race at their mercy, but they face the none too comforting prospect of winning distinctly on their own. They can look for little assistance from Eastern contemporaries—the Phillies, Dodgers and Braves being an indelible lot.

The Pittsburgh Pirates and the Cincinnati Reds are expected to furnish whatever competition the Giants may be offered, with the St. Louis Cardinals and the Chicago Cubs always dangerous. In consequence, when the Eastern teams are swinging through the west, the Giants may experience a corrugated time of it in meeting four tough opponents in succession, with the three other Eastern teams figuring to lose steadily and, therefore, only contributing to the general grief.

The Yankees are similarly situated. They must look to Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis and Cleveland for their real rivalry and to Washington and Boston for little or nothing. These latter, with the possible exception of the Phillies, are reckoned as the weakest clubs in baseball, and oddly enough all three start out hopefully under new management. Frank Chance is back in the game at the head of the Boston Red Sox, and his task of making something out of nothing is said to be hopeless. Donie Bush has the remnants of what was once the Washington Senators, and he will do well to finish higher than seventh, while Arthur Fletcher, in charge of the Phillies, can hope only for a modern miracle to keep his club out of last place with any degree of permanence.

BANK PUTS K. &amp; M. OUT OF RACE

For Second Half Bowling Honors—Fessenden and Matthews Teams to Fight it Out.

The mighty have fallen again. It was just another David and Goliath story with the time Monday night, the scene of action the Y. M. C. A. bowling alley and the contestants the K. & M. Silk Mills and the Nation Uster County Bank. K. & M. was the winner of the trophy for the first half of the league. They hold all the honors for high scores in this half. They led the league race almost continuously until the "Little David" squad stepped up from second last place to hand them a two-to-one thrashing. K. & M. started off at a first rate clip, retaining their opponents by 40 pins in the first game. Each man on the silk mill squad rolled a good game. Rice kept up his work in the second, but his teammates fell down. Port and Brenna did some tall busting, while Snyder sewed up the game for the bankers with 170. Boese-neck went in for K. & M. in the third game, replacing Van Dine, but his arm failed him and 145 was the best he could do. Rice fell down to 144. Stawson tried his best to overcome the lead of the bankers, but it was of no use, for they were rolling strong by now. Port rolled up a total of 171, while Brenna made up for being late by stoking in a game one point higher than Stawson's best. The result of this match puts K. & M. out of the race for the pennant. The Fessenden shirt Company and the P. R. Matthews Company are the two possibilities now. Both have the same average, but the latter has one more match to play. If they take all three games in this match, they will have won the honors. By winning two games they will again tie the shirt men and a play-off game will decide the winner.
